J. BROTHERTON, at the Bible, in Cornhill.

M.DCC.LVIII.

T H E

P R E F A C E.

HE many Editions, thro' which Mr. Langham's Book of Nett Customs and Drawbacks has passed, are such Proofs of the publick Approbation, as render it altogether needless for the present Editor to say any thing in its Recommendation: An Apology might rather be expected, for altering a Work so universally approved, were it not generally known, that since the Publication of the last Edition, there has been so great an Alteration in the Customs, that, in order to preserve the former Usefulness of that Work, it was become necessary to adapt it to their present State. The Editor therefore has, with the utmost Care, revised, altered, and, he hopes, with equal Accuracy, continued it down to the Year 1757.

In this Work, are ranged in Alphabetical Order, under their proper Heads, all the different Sorts of Merchandize contained in the Old and New Books of Rates; and against each are placed, their respective Rates or Valuations, together with the Nett Duties payable on Importation, and the Nett Drawbacks on Exportation. And in a separate Chapter, the respective Bounties to be received, upon the Exportation of several British Manufactures, the Bounties and Drawbacks on Exciseable Goods exported, and the Premium on Naval Stores imported.

By this Method, the Custom and Drawbacks upon any Sort of Merchandize are seen at one View, without referring to the several Subsidies, or to the many Acts of Parliament from whence they are deduced.

The P R E F A C E.

The Customs, Drawbacks, &c. are here computed to the utmost Exactness, whereby the Sum to be paid or received, upon the Import or Export of any Quantity of Merchandize, may be easily and accurately determined. And to render it more easy for the Merchant or Trader, the Fractions which in the former Editions, were calculated to the 100th Part of one Penny, are in this, reduced to the 20th Part of one Penny, for the Conveniency of comparing with the other Books of Rates, which are calculated in the same Manner.

The Goods marked with the Italick Letter (a) are such as are marked in the New Book of Rates, and for the most Part, are charged with different Duties from Goods which fall under the same general Head, as Drugs, &c. And as such of them as are imported from the East-Indies, pay still according to their Value at the Sale, they are therefore put by themselves.

Care has been taken in all the Duties and Drawbacks, as well as in the Bounties, to insert sert all the Alterations which have arisen by Acts of Parliament, since the last Edition, to the 30th of GEORGE II.

The Figures at the Edge, near the Binding, are placed there, the better to direct the Eye from the Line in one Page, to its correspondent Line in the other.

If the particular Sort of Merchandize sought for, is not found under its initial Letter, it will be seen under one of the general Heads following :

Corn,

Drugs,

East-India Goods,

Fish,

Furs,

Grocery,

Instruments for Barbers

and Surgeons,

Linen,

Spirits,

Wood.
